December 12, 20202:28 PM 3 min read Click here to watch Joshua vis. Pulev on DAZN Anthony Joshua finally returns to the ring, one year after regaining his world heavyweight titles, to defend against mandatory challenger Kubrat Pulev. Anthony Joshua will return to the ring after a year away when he defends the WBA, WBO and IBF world titles against Bulgaria's Kubrat Pulev at the SSE Arena in Wembley. Joshua lost his collection of belts to Andy Ruiz Jr. in a huge upset at Madison Square Garden in June 2019, but bounced back to regain them in the Saudi Arabia rematch that December. The first defence of his second reign vs. mandatory challenger Pulev has been hindered all year by the COVID-19 pandemic, but will take place in time for Joshua's promoter Eddie Hearn to then move on to finalising a huge champion vs. champion showdown with fellow Brit and WBC titleholder Tyson Fury in 2021. Of course, Joshua must first avoid another Ruiz-esque slip-up against Puley, whose only professional loss so far came in his only previous title tilt. He was stopped by Wladimir Klitschko in 2014 after becoming one of the only boxers to force the long-reigning "Dr. Steelhammer" into an open slugfest. "I have been watching his fights carefully," Pulev said in a recent interview. "He has a good style and he is a good specimen, but he has not shown any mental toughness." Yes, he has skills, but he hasn't shown the mental strength. This is something from within, in the blood of a man, and he does not have it. "Whatever mental toughness will prevail, "This is going to be a mind game and a chess game for as long as it lasts — a master chess game — but the only difference is the end is going to come like lightning." I can tell the fans that I will expose AJ again and prove they have been idolising the wrong guy. I will expose him to the world for a second time." Anthony Joshua vs. Kubrat Pulev fight date, start time Date: Saturday 12 December Time: 18:00 GMT Main event: 22:30 GMTThe Joshua-Pulev card will begin at 18:00 GMT (1 p.m. ET), with Joshua and Pulev expected to make their ring walks about 22.30 GMT (5:30 p.m. ET), although the time depends on the length of the earlier fights. Another dominant display like the one he put in against Ruiz at the second asking and we should be looking at the unification bout everyone wants - Joshua vs Tyson Fury - some time in 2021. It's still 2020, though, so it's safe to say that anything could happen at Wembley tonight as AJ goes up against Bulgarian mandatory challenger, Kubrat Pulev. This is one of those fights that you thought was destined to never happen, having been planned as far back as 2017. The last time we nearly got Joshua vs Pulev was back in June, but thanks to the second nastiest C-word around, that one got called off, too. Now, things are finally good to go ahead, with reigning champ Joshua the clear favorite on home soil at Wembley Arena tonight. All the pressure is on the British fighter too, though, as he looks to cement his status at the top of the game and move on to a dream world heavyweight championship unification fight against WBC kingpin Tyson Fury next year. Pulev will be no walkover, with the 39-year-old Bulgarian having been European heavyweight champion twice between 2012 and 2016. He's been in good form recently, too, and is currently enjoying a run of five straight wins - the most recent over American Kevin Johnson. Read on as we explain all your options for watching this unmissable heavyweight bout. No matter where you are in the world you can watch a Joshua vs Pulev live stream today with the help of our guide. How to watch the Anthony Joshua vs Kubrat Pulev fight if you're away from your country If you're away from your country that does have one. The software is perfect for this as it allows you to change your IP address and appear to be in a completely different location - and all through a safe, encrypted connection. That said, DAZN is one of the few streaming services that has successfully been able to vanquish the use of VPNs. We've tried all the major providers, and they all struggle. Thankfully, the best VPN in the world is still effective with Sky Sports. Use a VPN to watch a Joshua vs Pulev live stream from abroadRemember, there are loads of benefits to using a VPN beyond just helping you regain access to streaming services and content from abroad. One of the biggest is security: by using encrypted tunnels, VPNs give you a robust first-line of defense against cybercriminals and government snooping. This makes everyday tasks like online shopping and banking much safer, and many people choose to use one for that reason alone. Pronounced 'Da Zone', DAZN is a sports-centric streaming service that launched in 2016 and is now available in over 200 countries all around the world including the US, Canada, UK, Australia and New Zealand. Its offering varies by region, but as an idea, it owns the rights to the Premier League, Champions League, NFL, cricket, snooker, rugby union and more in Canada - one of its original and biggest markets. It's also seeking to challenge the pay-per-view boxing hierarchy, and is scoring an increasing number of coups. In addition to broadcasting the Joshua vs Pulev fight in a number of countries, it's also got upcoming fights featuring Canelo Alvarez and Gennady 'GGG' Golovkin. The price of DAZN also varies depending on where you are in the world but is generally competitive - in newer market like the UK, an introductory offer is still running that has it available for just £1.99 a month, while in more established markets like Canada it costs CAD$20 a month. It also offers a FREE trial (opens in new tab)in some areas and works with pretty much any modern device imaginable. It's a great all-round offering, with the only real drawback (as we've noted above) being that it doesn't play overly nice with VPNs in all territories, so you may only be able to watch it in
